A Biography of the Signers

OF THE

Declaration of Independence,

Accompanied with Plates.

To which will be annexed a History of the Proceedings of Congress, during the passage of the Law, and the Declaration itself, with the fac simile Engravings of the Signatures.

By JOHN SANDERSON.

TO THE PUBLIC.

When we consider the personal qualities of the statesmen whose names are affixed to the Declaration of Independence, the perilous occasion which demanded the exercise of their wisdom and deliberation, and the influence of their councils on the interests of mankind, we must acknowledge that very rarely a more imposing spectacle has been offered to the world, and we shall seek in vain in the annals of nations, for an event more worthy of commemoration, and of being cherished forever in the hearts of a grateful and generous people. The love of independence is interwoven with the frame and constitution of the human mind. It is almost the first sentiment that animates the infant's features in the cradle; and amongst all the actions and enterprizes of man, none has awaked into activity a greater exertion of the virtuous energies of his nature, none has excited a greater warmth of veneration, and has more imperious claims upon our gratitude, than resistance to tyranny and political aggression.

In all republican states the first tribute of genius has been paid to the patriot or the hero who has promoted the cause of liberty and maintained the independence and dignity of man. The animated canvas and breathing marble have rescued his features from the grasp of death, and the pen of the historian has inscribed the achievements to the imperishable records of fame. It would indeed be no favorable prognostic of the perpetuity of our republican institutions to discover an insensibility to the obligations we owe the memory of the illustrious patrons of American freedom. They have raised us, by their magnanimity, from the arbitrary dominion of a foreign power, to the distinguished elevation of a sovereign and independent people; they have asserted and maintained the imprescriptible rights of humanity by the "mutual pledge of their pledge of their lives, their fortunes and their sacred honors;" and, as long as virtue holds her empire in the hearts of their successors, the example of these generous benefactors will not be lost to the world; their names will not pass away nor be forgotten, or their glorious deeds be confounded in the common and casual transaction of life.—Ingratitude is a vice that in nations, as well as individuals, indicates the last degree of degeneracy and corruption; it is a vice that implies the absence of every virtue; it was in the age of Caligula that the name of the Scipios was proscribed, that the state of Brutus brought death on its possessor.

"The glory of our ancestors is the light of posterity," and the homage of the living cannot be offered to the merits of the illustrious dead with an effectual or sterile admiration. Great and splendid actions will seldom be achieved by men who have humble or ordinary objects in prospect. It is by contemplating the life and character of those who are marked out from the multitude by their eminent qualities, that we become emulous of their virtues and their renown. The trophies of Miltiades interrupted the sleeps of Themistocles; and Theseus, hearing the exploits of Hercules, was fired with his spirit, and became the successful rival of his fame. The rude savage of the desert listens with rapture to the deeds of his ancestors, and hangs around his hut the emblems of his father's valour.

More need not be said to enforce the utility of the publication we have undertaken, and which we now submit to the patronage of our fellow-citizens, with a hope, that from the liberality of their encouragement, we shall be able to present it to the public worthy of their approbation. We must depend for the illustration of many of the characters of our biography, upon the generosity of their surviving relatives and friends, to furnish us with whatever interesting materials may be in their possession; for which, with our grateful acknowledgments, we promise a copy of the entire work as a compensation.

CONDITIONS.

I. The work will be published in numbers of half volumes of 200 pages, octavo, and contained in ten numbers. To the first will be prefixed an appropriate frontispiece—and the work will be commenced with the declaration of independence, with engraved fac similes of the signatures, and a compendious detail of the proceedings of congress, during the passage of the law. Each of the lives, unless when it is impracticable, will be preceded by a likeness of the person, engraved by the best artists in the United States.

II. It will be printed on fine paper, made expressly for the purpose, and delivered to subscribers at two dollars and fifty cents per number, payable on delivery.

A gentleman eating a steak that was very tough, said it put him in mind of an English poet; being asked who that was, he replied Chau-cer.

ABSENCE OF MIND.

The justly celebrated Lessing was frequently very absent. Having missed money at different times, without being able to discover who took it, he determined to put his servant's honesty to trial, and left some on his table. Of course you counted it, said one of his friends. Counted it, said Lessing, rather embarrassed—no, I forgot that.

TRIFLES

Are often neglected because their connexion is not apparent; they often turn the beam in matters of the least importance.

ALEXANDRIA:
WEDNESDAY MORNING, November 17.

Extract of a letter to the editors of the Baltimore Federal Republican, dated

"Havana, Oct. 29.

"Gentlemen—On the 28th inst. the August and September packets arrived from Cadiz, via Porto Rico, the former (El Vengador) in 30, the latter (El Voluntario) in 49 days, the Lady of Governor Cagigal on board. They confirm the accounts of H. C. Majesty's refusal to ratify the Treaty, assigning as a reason that Yrujo had instructed Don Onis to cede the Floridas without the King's sanction.—It is said that this minister is in consequence a prisoner at Ceuta, and that Don Onis had fled to London. It is not here believed that a rupture will result between the United States and Spain, but fears are indulged that the ultimate possession of the Floridas by the Americans will induce Great Britain to seize the Island of Cuba, to preclude an undivided control of the Gulf by the United States.

"The new troops suffer severely from the climate. The rains have been uncommonly violent for the last 15 days, and the city is very sickly in consequence of the 3600 soldiers recently arrived. I have ascertained 316 privates and 17 officers have been buried, and that 1045 are now in the Hospital. For their support and relief, however the new Governor has yesterday ordered the following additional duties.

On Flour per barrel		3-8ths. dols.
On Wine	do	3-8ths also
On Vinegar	do
On Brandy	do

And on cases of Liquors, &c. "in the same proportion to form a district duty for the garrison."

Flour 17 dollars, dull—nearly 20,000 bls. in market.

From the Boston Centinel.

The indignation which the event has occasioned, and the incorrect manner in which it has been narrated, have induced inquiries which have resulted in the following facts, which we publish on the best authority.

Captain Smith, in the Macedonian, trading at Lima, sold and delivered his cargo to the Philipine Company, before that port was declared to be in a state of blockade; and when the blockade was made by Lord Cochrane, this vessel, with the other neutral vessels there, went round to the little port of Guermez, about 70 leagues north of Lima, being the port designated by Lord C. himself. Captain Smith, while on his way from Lima to Guermez, by land, with 142,000 dollars, the proceeds of his cargo, was intercepted, robbed of the money by Lord C. and taken on board his ship, where he was held a close prisoner; and where, after having repeatedly declared that it was wholly American property, he was compelled by Lord C. to sign a certificate that it was on Spanish account.—After which Capt. S. was released, and immediately protested against these piratical proceedings; and transmitted his protest, with the necessary documents proving that the property was bona fide American, and the actual proceeds of the cargo taken from Boston, to Mr. Hill, the Vice Consul at Valparaiso.

A statement of this daring transaction, we learn, has been sent on to Washington; and it is not hazarding much to predict, that the demand of this plundered property will be made by a naval accompaniment, which will insure its restitution; or be followed by the capture of the freebooter (for what but freebooters would take property in this manner and divide it without adjudication) who has robbed our countrymen of it; at the same time affording the needed protection to our rich Whalemen in the South Sea.

St. Louis, Oct. 6.

We have received several letters from manufacturers in the Atlantic states, solicitous to learn how each of their fabrics would succeed in this quarter. We would inform them that the subject requires much investigation, and that it will be entered into immediately. In the mean time we would advise capitalists in the manufacture of iron and castings, paper, cotton goods and leather, to commence immediately in these branches.

The following route from St. Louis to the Yellow Stone River, may afford some information to the numerous friends of the troops bound on that expedition.

From the London Chronicle.

STATE OF ENGLAND.

The proceedings of the meetings throughout the country, reprobating the conduct of the magistrates and yeomanry of Manchester crowd upon us to such a degree that we find a considerable difficulty in giving insertion to them. Yesterday we gave a report of the meetings at Leeds, and of the ward of Warringdon Without, in this city; and to day we give reports of the meetings of the borough of Southwark, of the ward of Bishopsgate held yesterday, and of the city of York held on Monday last. This is as it should be, and as we all along were confident would be. We knew our countrymen too well to doubt for a moment, either the nature of the feelings with which they viewed the Manchester outrages or their courage to give expressions to these feelings. When the Courier tauntingly told us, that about thirty people only, throughout all England, Scotland, and Ireland would raise their voice against these outrages, we answered him that this taunt would soon be thrown back in his teeth with derision. Indeed the simultaneous burst of indignation from the press of the country, on the first receipt of the afflicting news, could leave little doubt as to the state of the public feeling, and such a declaration after this pretty unequivocal indication, was certainly a proof either of very astonishing blindness, or very astonishing assurance.

At York, 4 or 5,000 people paraded the streets with banners and music, and marched in a procession six a breast, or in the vocabulary of the Manchester authorities and the treasury prints, in military array. And yet, notwithstanding all these formidable appearances, the Lord mayor of York told the meeting that he had not placed a single constable in attendance, nor sworn in an additional special constable. This constitutional magistrate said, he had always seen the greatest order prevalent in the city, and he did not chosse to libel the people by anticipating from them a conduct different from any thing he had ever yet seen. He has evidently been taught in a different school from that of the rev. Messrs. Hay and Ethelstod, and the rest of the Magistrates of Manchester.

The speech of the recorder of Doncaster ought to be attentively studied by those who are longing with so much eagerness to put down meetings by force, and think the business will then be over. There is one passage in it, which is more particularly deserving of notice, as the evidence of a man of abilities, who must be well acquainted with that part of the country, at least, to which all eyes have been so long turned, respecting the actual state of things in it. "The real state of the public mind, he said, on the question of reform, was perhaps, the most important one that was ever connected with the government of this kingdom. He had long felt it to be so; he had long taken every means in his power to ascertain how the fact actually stood; the result was a firm persuasion, that this principle was neither local nor temporary—that no measures, that no ministers, could extinguish it—and, that a continuation of that mode of opposing it which the ministers had for some years adopted, would deluge the nation in blood, and overturn every existing establishment.—A whole people were not to be persecuted, insulted, overawed; a nation could neither be arrested or imprisoned, nor tried, nor executed."

From the prevalence of high church doctrines in the ruling party at Manchester, we are not astonished at the predilection of its magistrates for those laws which were passed under the Stuarts. But we confess, notwithstanding these magistrates (to the surprise of the whole country) did a year or two ago arrest several individuals on the act of Charles II. (enacting that "no person or persons shall procure the getting of hands, or other consent, of any persons above the number of twenty or more, to any petition, complaint, remonstrance, &c. for alterations of matters established by law, unless the matter thereof have been first consented unto by three or more justices of that county, or by the major part of the county or division of the county where the same matter shall arise; or if arising in London by the Lord Mayor, aldermen and commons in common council assembled;") and for doing which they ought to have been called to a severe account, we were astonished that even the Courier should have the hardihood to adduce this statute as a law in force, authorising the dispersion of the meetings at Manchester, Smithfield, Leeds, &c. as illegal. In the first place, this most abominable act, worthy of the rein under which it passed, does not apply to meetings, but to the procuring of subscriptions to petitions—and in the next place it is well known to have been repealed by the act of settlement, in which it is expressly declared, "that it is the right of the subjects to petition the king, and all commitments and prosecutions for such petitioning are illegal." Never did it enter the head of the most devoted tool of power, from the passing of the act of settlement down to the arrests ordered by the Manchester magistrates, that the procuring of more than twenty signatures to petitions was illegal; and we are not exaggerating when we say that nineteen out of every twenty petitions presented to the legislature since the revolution, have not received the consent pointed out by the act of Charles. Shame on the writer of the present day who can become the advocate of such a law!

SOUTHWARK RESOLUTIONS.

"1. That it is the imprescriptible right of freemen to meet and discuss their grievances, and that it is their duty to maintain these rights, to avoid becoming slaves, and thus render themselves unworthy of the privileges derived from their ancestors.

"2. That it appears to this meeting that a criminal, cruel and cowardly outrage has been committed by the magistrates and yeomanry cavalry of Manchester, on the 16th of August, against an unoffending multitude, constitutionally and legally assembled.

"3. That this outrage seems to have been premeditated by the magistrates, and by clandestine arrangements so conducted, as to prevent the unfortunate victims from avoiding the ferocious malice and unmanly cruelty of the yeomanry cavalry, charged with the execution of an unlawful order.

"4. That the blood shed upon this occasion demands that justice which trial by jury affords, and those who oppose such justice render themselves confederates of the original guilty parties.

"5. That this meeting sees with indignation the advisers of the crown have, without investigation, approved these criminal proceedings, and that they have moreover insiduously opposed impediments to the prosecution of the offenders, by a refusal to grant "immediate and effectual inquiry into the outrages that have been committed, and to cause the guilty perpetrators thereof to be brought to signal and condign punishment;" and that they have thereby afforded another proof of their disposition to establish a military despotism.

"6. That it appears to this meeting the ministers have by such conduct proved themselves unworthy of the confidence of the regent, and that the continuation in office of the professed supporters of a system of military government, cruelty and injustice, is fatal to the liberties of the country and safety of the people.

"7. That it is the opinion of this meeting, since the ministers of the crown have identified themselves with the transactions on the fatal 16th of August, at Manchester, by advising the prince regent to approve the conduct pursued on that occasion by the magistrates and yeomanry, and since they have moreover advised his royal highness, in answer to the common council of the city of London to refuse their prayer for an immediate and effectual inquiry; that under such circumstances it would be useless and inexpedient again to petition the executive authority, whilst his councils are directed by the present official advisers.

"8. That being reduced to this situation this meeting does recommend to all counties, cities, boroughs and parishes throughout the united kingdom, to assemble forthwith, and call aloud for the trial and punishment of those who shall be proved to have inhumanely violated the laws, to raise at the same time their united voices in favor of an immediate reform in the representative system, and to sustain "trial by jury," as the only security left for their lives and properties.

"9. That it appears to this meeting that an union amongst all the friends of British liberty, and of a just and mild government is more than ever necessary, and that it is the duty of every man who is actuated by these principles and feelings to promote such concert."

ARRIVAL EXTRAORDINARY

Arrived at Bozrah, Connecticut, on the —— inst. the Balloon Sky-scraper, Mons. Guille commander. From several extracts from her log-book, published in the Connecticut Gazette, we take the following:—

"——Spoke Barque Underground, Symmes master, who informed us he had been out 102 days on a voyage of discovery——that he had proved his Theory, and come out of the trap door at the North Pole—that he was now bound to the South pole, where he intended to say "Open Sesame," enter and return to the place of his departure—also informed us that he was short handed, as three of his crew had deserted in the subterranean passage, and had engaged to blow the bellows of a Volcano furnace, and two were at work in an Earthquake Factory.

(Observation—great encouragement given to domestic manufactures in this country.)—Gave us a jar of pickled Icicles and a keg of Brimstone water, in exchange for a few bottles of lightning drops and a gallipot of moon grease—by him we learn that the expedition to the North pole had sailed and the people in that quarter were very much disappointed, as many wished to go to England to hear orator Hunt, &c. gave us a file of Spitzbergen papers——parted in a squall. * * * * * *

A late Liverpool paper announces the safe return of Messrs. Livingston and Sadler, from their ærial excursion. The account of their voyage, which is copied below, will be read with interest.

RETURN OF MESSRS. LIVINGSTON AND SADLER.

No certain intelligence having reached the town of the fate of these intrepid æronauts as late as Thursday evening, the public were beginning to be somewhat uneasy; but their anxiety was soon relieved by the receipt of several letters from Stockton-upon-Tees, in the county of Durham, near to which place Messrs. Livingston and Sadler alighted on the day of their departure from hence. Yesterday, at half past 12, the public were delighted to see them driving into the town in a chaise and four; the postillions decorated with white ribbons, and the car tied to the top of the chaise. They drove through Church-st. Lord-street, Castle-st. and Dale st. to the office of the Gas-Light Company, where they met several gentlemen of the committee appointed to conduct the the ascent, to whom they gave a short account of their long and perilous voyage. At three o'clock they came in the same chaise to the Exchange, where they alighted and went into the Exchange News-room, amidst an immense crowd of the merchants and gentlemen, then assembled, by whom they were received with three cheers. They here gave a short account of their expedition and adventures, after which, they ascended into the Underwriter's room, where they were greeted with the same cordiality. A collection was immediately made, which amounted to a considerable sum.

We forbear from giving any detailed account of this very interesting excursion, at the request of the committee under whose auspices a minute narrative of the whole will soon be published for the benefit of the parties concerned, who are well entitled to every incidental advantage which can be derived from it, not only on account of the toil and hazards they have undergone, but from the loss they are likely to sustain.

This is the longest ærial voyage ever made in Great Britain. The balloon ascended from Liverpool at a quarter past two o'clock, and alighted at 5 minutes past five, at the distance of about a mile and a half from the town of Stockton. In a space of two hours and fifty minutes, therefore, they traversed a distance of nearly 110 miles in a line al direction, and if the indulations and aberrations of the machine are allowed for, it would make at least 170 miles. In the course of this voyage, they traversed some of the finest parts of the counties of York and Durham, the views of which both gentlemen describe as sublime and enchanting beyond description. At a height of nearly two miles from the earth, they took their refreshment, and drank the health of the sovereign, and prosperity to the town and trade of Liverpool, in that awful symposium. They frequently, on approaching a town or village, decended so low as to be able to converse with the people, by whom they were ofteu invited to make a call and take some refreshment; but such morning visits being rather inconvenient, they were obliged to decline the honor. The noble waving line made by the balloon in these decendings and ascendings must have been the finest sights which occurred in the whole exhibition, and accordingly, they seemed to excite the highest rapture in the rural spectators. They did not suffer much from cold; the mercury in the thermometer generally ranging about 38. Unfortunately, they had no barometer with them, but Mr. Livingston conjectures, that their utmost elevation might be about four miles and a quarter. Near the town of Stockton they approached a range of hills, and on surmounting these, were some what startled at perceiving themselves within a few miles of the sea. They immediately drew the valve, and alighted with all possible expedition. On reaching the ground, they threw out the grappling iron, the hook of which broke at the first pull, and on throwing it out again, another hook was bent straight, and the anchor again dragged. The balloon now forced itself through a thick hedge, the sudden jerk, occasioned by which, unfortunately pitched Mr. Livingston against the side of the car, by which his head and shoulder were so severely bruised, that it was thought advisable to let blood, but he is now neary recovered. At length, by continually keeping open the valve, the balloon gradually subsided in a stubble field, and was finally secured without having sustained the least damage.

We understand that the ærial travellers undertook this long voyage with the view of trying the power of the balloon, and its capability of crossing the channel from hence, the practicability of which is now ascertained.

Whilst the balloon was majestically sweeping over the Fever Hospital, Brownlow-hill, &c. on Tuesday, Mr. Livingston was observed standing on the outer-edge of the trail car that sustained him, and holding only with one of his hands on the netting. This instance of gratuitous daring excited the greatest astonishment, and some terror: like many other brilliant achievements however, it was thought more worthy of admiration than of imitation.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, living near Aldie, Loudoun county, Virginia, on the night of the 11th inst. a negro man, who calls his name NED BURGES. He is a shrewd, intelligent negro, about 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high; 30 years of age, well made, active and polite. Had on when he went away, a sky colored coat, and corded pantaloons. His right eye sore, apparently occasioned by a blow, the blood having settled around it. His ears have been pierced, and had green silk in them when he went away. It is expected he is now lurking about Fairfax court-house and Aldie. The above Ned Burges ran away on the night of the 25th of last Aug and was caught on the 11th inst. on the night of which he effected his elopement by drawing the staple to which he was fastened by the handle of a pan, while there was no person in the kitchen but himself. He was caught on the 11th inst. a few miles below Aldie, but I think it improbable that he has gone near the same place again. I will give 100 dollars if he is taken out of the county, and fifty if taken in the county. and secured so that I get him again, and all reasonable charges if brought home. GEO. GULICK.

P. S. It is supposed that the said negro has obtained papers of freedom, or a free pass, or something of the kind. G. G.

Fifty Dollars Reward.

RAN AWAY from the subscriber, on Thursday, the 11th inst. a negro man, named DICK, who sometimes calls himself Dick Douglas. He is a small man about 5 feet 6 inches high, and is not a very black man. I purchased him from the estate of Edgar McCarty, esq. Cedar Grove, Fairfax county, Va. and it is likely that he may be lurking about that neighborhood or Colchester, as he has a wife at capt. Berry's of the latter place; or he may have gone to Loudoun county, as he has lived there in the neighborhood of Wm. McCarty and John McCarty, near Leesburg. He had on and took with him an old grey cloth coat and a brown do pantaloons of drab colored domestic cloth. He is much addicted to liquor, and is a coarse shoemaker. I will give 20 dollars if taken in the district of Columbia. Thirty dollars if taken in Fairfax county, and the above reward if apprehended in any other place, and secured so that I get him again; and reasonable charges if brought home. WM. B. STUART.

S. Drew, Merchant Tailor,

Removed from Fairfax-street to the corner of King and Columbus streets, and his prices falling,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints his customers and the citizens in general that he has removed as above, where he will study to give satisfaction. He has by him a small but well assorted stock of goods, which will be found on inspection to be of the best quality, the whole of which he wishes to sell low for cash, and as further inducements to purchasers he offers to cut out any goods, bought of him to any size or pattern gratis.

S. Drew aware, of the advantage a ready money business has over one where long credit is given, thinks that a distinction ought to be made in the prices in each case: and as the price of provisions are low at present, he is glad to be able to announce to those customers who will feel disposed to pay him ready money for his work, that he will reduce the price of making to them according to the present journeymen's wages; and to prevent any supposed imposition on the one hand or disatisfaction on the other he is willing to be governed by the printed regulations of prices by which the journeymen are paid in Alexandria.

N. B. Bread, flour, beef, groceries, liquors or any thing valuable taken in exchange for clothes.

S. Drew has this day opened a tavern in the same house, where he has laid in a supply of Philadelphia and the district porter and ale, together with liquors of the best quality, and he feels confident that he shall be able to give satisfaction to all who will please to favor him with a call.—He is fitting up his house for the accommodation of boarders, travellers, &c. and from its central situation, good beds and stabling, together with other requisites, he presumes that it will be found a convenient establishment.

Virginia, negro HARRY, aged about twenty three years, about five feet ten inches high, very black, well built, has a considerable impediment in his speech, when spoken to evinces much co fusion, and replies almost unintelligibly: had on when he left home, a much worn suit of domestic cloth. I have every reason to believe that he is endeavoring to pass for a free man, and as such went off in some of the bay craft during the late fishing season. All masters of vessels are forewarned from harboring or taking into their employ said negro, under penalty of having the law rigidly enforced against them. I WILL give the above reward to any person who will return to my possession, negro LAWRENCE, who assumes the sirname of FENWICK. This fellow left my farm, on the Wicomico river, in Charles county, Md. on the 6th July, in consequence of his own outrageous conduct towards my overseer. He is a negro of a fine erect figure, good features, asmooth black skin, rather above the middle stature, of a youthful appearance for one of thirty years of age, and of great plausibility and natural smartness. His ears grow remarkably close to his head, and on the inside of his lower lip he has a white mark or spot. I purchased him 4 years ago of the estate of Mrs. P. H. Courts, of this county. I am led (by circumstances which have come to my knowledge since he absconded,) to believe that he will endeavor to make his way to King George county, Va.; should he not take this route, he will probably be met with in the District of Columbia, or in the upper counties of this state, on his way to Pennsylvania. I apprehend he will change his name, and if committed to jail, refuse to state to whom he belongs, as the misconduct which preceded his departure, & his absconding, have all appeared since to have been premeditated. He took all his clothes with him, of which he had a large number; among them—a new bearskin over-coat, a long close-bodied blue coat, a pair of striped jean pantaloons, one or more white waistcoats, besides many articles of coarse cloathing; these, however, he will probably exchange, or sell them for cash to defray his travelling expenses.

I will give the above reward to any person who will bring him home to me, or FIFTY DOLLARS if confined in jail, and notice given me, so that I recover him.—Should he be taken out of the state, I will also pay all reasonable costs and charges which may attend the bringing him home.

I. T. STODDERT,

West Hatton, near Allen's Fresh Post-Office, Charles county, Maryland.
